The Alumni Times is listed in Canadian Advertising Rates and Data as accepting advertisements for whole or part pages. The magazine has a net circulation of 12,151 as of September 1973, subject to increase with each new class of graduates. It is sent to the faculty and staff of the University as well as to all alumni. Rate cards have been prepared and are available from the Editor.

From the Office of the Alumni Association

It has been a particular delight for me to become involved in Alumni concerns of the University of Windsor.

The University of Windsor and its illustrious forebear known as Assumption boast an Alumni body now well in excess of ten thousand persons. I have not met all of you yet. However, through visits in person, by telephone and by letter, I have had the privilege of dropping in on many hundreds of you in your places of business and service in points near and far. I count this experience with you as being one of the highlights of my several years association with this great institution.

I have sensed a concern on the part of our Alumni, as individual members and in the collective chapter situations, which goes far beyond the "rah, rah — school tie" interest. This is not to say that the old school spirit is gone — it is still very much alive. What I have seen and heard, expressed in a variety of ways, is a "participatory concern" for the ongoing development of the University, for the constant improving of its capabilities for meeting the needs of our children, and for its greater development in providing a situation of opportunity for all, the near the far, the old the young, the high school graduate and the seasoned alumnus. "What can I continue to do for my school?" "What can my school continue to do for me?" These are valid and searching questions.

The appointment of Mr. Gabriel L. DeLuca as Director of Alumni Affairs is given special attention elsewhere in the Times. I wish simply to say that it is my strong feeling that the University of Windsor, the Alumni Association, and our alumni everywhere, are privileged to have Gabe assume this very important responsibility on the Alumni team. It is a pleasure to be working with Gabe. He is deserving of our maximum support and encouragement.

Director of Alumni Affairs Appointed

Dr. J. Francis Leddy, President of the University of Windsor, has announced the appointment of Gabriel L. DeLuca as Director of Alumni Affairs of the University, effective March 1, 1974.

Mr. DeLuca has been Dean of Men of the University of Windsor since 1967. Previous to that appointment he was Assistant to the Dean of Men and Director of Residence. He has background as a secondary school teacher of English, and was Chairman of the English Department of Denis Morris High School, St. Catharines, Ontario.

At the University of Windsor, Mr. DeLuca has performed special duties in areas related to Student Affairs including being Advisor to Fraternities and the Inter-Fraternity Council and Foreign Student Advisor.

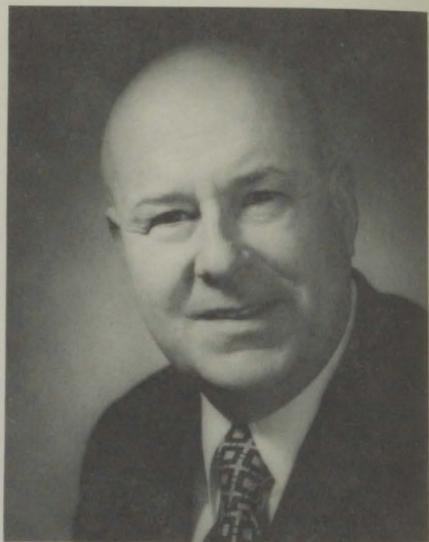

In his new position Mr. DeLuca will give direction to the Alumni concerns of the University, including the University of Windsor Alumni Association, Chapter Development, expansion of effective alumni relations and the Alumni Affairs Office. Additionally, he will assist Paul T. Holliday, Director of External Liaison, in matters related to the Development Fund at the University.

A native of Noranda, Quebec, who received his early education in St. Catharines, Ontario, Mr. DeLuca completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Western Ontario followed by Type A certificate studies at the University of Ottawa and a year of graduate studies in English at the Assumption University of Windsor.

Mr. DeLuca is Executive Secretary of the Essex County Hospital Planning Council, a member and past Chairman of the Board of Community Information Services of Windsor's United Community Services, Chairman of the local committee of Canadian University Service Overseas, and a Director of the Torch Club of Windsor. He has served on the Social Planning Council of United Community Services, was selection committee Chairman of World University Services, has functioned on the selection committee of Crossroads Africa and was staff advisor to Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. Mr. DeLuca is a member of the Canadian Association of Colleges and University Student Services, the Michigan Personnel Guidance Association, the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs and the Canadian Bureau for International Education.

From Your President

Dear Alumni:

It is with pleasure that we welcome a most significant step taken by the University in the appointment of Gabriel DeLuca as Director of Alumni Affairs. Gabe is a very capable person and we are already appreciating his work with the Association.

At this time, it is fitting to pay tribute to the work of Paul Holliday, Director of External Liaison, who has been Acting Director since late last summer. Due to Paul's labours, we have renewed Alumni interest in the Association and its Chapters in many centres. Further meetings have been held in Ottawa, Rochester, Hamilton, and Sudbury. Paul will continue to be closely associated with us inasmuch as he has been requested by the Board of Directors to participate in directorate meetings. In addition, a recommendation will be made at the next Annual Meeting that the Director of External Liaison from the University sit on the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association.

I attended the Annual Windsor Chapter Racetrack Party on February 13, 1974, and it was a well planned, well attended, most enjoyable affair. Leo Larocque of the Toronto Chapter has set the date of the Toronto Christmas Party for Friday, December 6, 1974, at the Royal York Hotel in the Confederation Room. Plan ahead to attend.

Committees are hard at work in the areas of Homecoming, Membership, Constitution, and Finance. There will be formalized reports at the June meeting of the Board of Directors. If any alumni have ideas on these matters, particularly Homecoming, would you please pass them on to your local member of the Board of Directors (see list in the Times) or directly to Gabe DeLuca at the Alumni Office. Your interest will be appreciated and your suggestions passed on to the appropriate committees.

Our Life and Annual Active Memberships are still growing. Just a reminder to annual members to check to see if it is your time to renew your membership. The Active Membership is a real way to show our interest in the Association and the University.

We are looking forward to meeting many of you at further Alumni functions during the year and particularly at Homecoming.

Sincerely,
Joe Stefani

Chapter Activities

ROCHESTER

On Friday evening, January 25, a number of concerned Rochester Alumni gathered for a dinner meeting at the Top of the Plaza. It was a delightful evening with enthusiastic participation by all present. Plans are in the making for the restructuring of the Rochester Chapter with Rochester and District Alumni being tremendously helpful through recommendations and offers of practical assistance. Dr. J. F. Leddy, President of the University of Windsor, addressed the gathering. Rev. Eugene Malley, C.S.B., Vice-Dean Humanities (Dean Malley is a Rochester old boy!), and Paul T. Holliday, Director of External Liaison, also participated in the evening.

OTTAWA

On February 13, while Windsor Chapterites were watching the horses at the Raceway Event, a fine group of our Ottawa Alumni were meeting to plan the development of an Ottawa Chapter. Through the excellent arrangements of Alumnus Doug Brombal, the meeting was held on the Carleton University campus. A significant dimension of the Ottawa meeting was the fact that in addition to the goodly number of Alumni from years gone by, many of those present were recent grads who have established themselves in positions of responsibility in the Ottawa area. In meeting with the Ottawa group, Paul Holliday, Director of External Liaison, shared information concerning current developments on campus and led discussions which focussed on future plans for participation by the Ottawa Chapter in Alumni matters and in the affairs of the University.

HAMILTON/BURLINGTON

Alumni strength is such in the Hamilton/Burlington region that a spirit of happy competition is evident at events held in that area. This was the case on Friday evening, March 15 when the Hamilton Chapter met at the Holiday Inn, Burlington, for a very pleasant dinner meeting where consideration was given to future planning and redevelopment of the Chapter. Dr. Michael Zin, Dean of the Faculty of Business Administration and Past President of the Alumni Association, addressed the gathering. Gabriel L. DeLuca, newly-appointed Director of Alumni Affairs was introduced by Paul T. Holliday. An April planning meeting has been scheduled by this very enthusiastic group.

SUDBURY

Northern hospitality characterized a most delightful event when the Sudbury Chapter of the University of Windsor Alumni Association met in the banquet room of the Sheraton Caswell Motor Inn, on Wednesday, March 27. Professor David Wilson of the Faculty of Business Administration and member of the Directorate of the Alumni Association travelled to Sudbury with Gabriel L. DeLuca, Director of Alumni Affairs, and met with loyal alumni from that region. It was some years ago that Al "Butch" Lugli threatened the development of such a strong Sudbury Chapter that Father LeBel would be compelled to move the University of Windsor to the north country. We are not sure about the moving of the campus, but the interest in Sudbury is such as to offer a worthwhile example of positive and constructive concern.

Windsor-Detroit Chapter

Off to the Races

The Windsor-Detroit Chapter's third annual evening at Windsor Raceway was, like the first two, an overall success, with the largest attendance ever. At this event, Gabe DeLuca had his first opportunity as the new Alumni Director to greet local alumni.

A group of 150 alumni, friends, faculty and administrative staff met at the Canadian Club Room of Windsor Raceway on Wednesday, February 13, for a truly excellent buffet dinner: a royal feast complete with ice sculpture and huge cornucopia of fruit.

After dinner - - - the races! As usual this was a source of great excitement. Of course, the alumni party entered into the betting spirit of the evening—how successfully, we daren't say! Betting aside, everyone was a winner as far as a most pleasant evening was concerned. See you all next year at the fourth annual evening at Windsor Raceway.

1974 Golf Tourney

Kingsville Golf Club and Saturday, June 15 are the important items to remember for the 1974 Alumni Golf Tournament. The Detroit and Windsor Chapter again will host the event and the Chapter invites all Alumni and their guests to attend.

Tee-off times will be available from approximately 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. To reserve a time please call the Alumni Office on or after June 3 and before June 12. It is recommended that you reserve early. If you do not have a full foursome, please let us know your year of graduation and we can put you with a group from your year.

As usual, a buffet dinner, prizes and a golf film will round out the event.

A Weekend for All Women

Women find women more interesting every day! The Centre for Women's Interests and Concerns, a project of the Office of Student Affairs at the University of Windsor, is capitalizing on that interest to help women of all ages find out where they can fit into today's world. Self discovery sessions, art shows, creativity classes and sessions to help high school girls plan their future in University have all been a part of the Women's Centre program this year. The culmination of the year's efforts was the second annual Weekend for Women which attracted over 200 enthusiastic participants to the campus on February 8, 9 and 10. The conference focused the attention of speakers, panelists and general participants on the theme "Women in the Working World".

A wide variety of approaches was used to explore the satisfactions and difficulties of women who are presently members of the work force or who are contemplating "opting-in" to the working world outside the home. The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Elinor Waters, who is the Assistant Director of the Continuum Centre at Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan, and successfully highlighted many areas of concern for consideration. Dr. Waters drew attention to the problems encountered by women who, because their experience and training are limited, can find little satisfaction in the monotonous, low paying jobs available to them.

Young, unmarried women have failed, in the past, to plan their futures in terms of employment. Societal attitudes toward the sex roles of women have discouraged them from seeking adequate preparation for careers which can provide adequate satisfaction, status and pay. As a result many women with grown families are finding that, though they would like to work outside the home, the jobs available are unsuitable. Frustration and discontent can be the end products of this situation. Even women who have no interest in working outside the home have a stake, through their children, in providing an atmosphere where young women can plan their lives for real satisfaction instead of unquestioningly seeking an early marriage.

The "Professional Women's Panel" moderated by Martha Wolfe, professional librarian, dealt with the problems and advantages of women who are in professional capacities. "Women and Employment", moderated by Shaughnessy Cohen, a Counsellor at St. Clair College, dealt with women as employees. Lively discussions were prompted by the panelists, all women conversant with the situations encountered by women working in the Windsor area.

"Women's Work: The Un-Tea Party", a panel whose moderator was Georgina Dunlop, presented a picture of the alternatives to full-time, gainful employment. Volunteerism, consumerism and part-time employment were seen as opportunities for women seeking stimulation and a chance to serve outside the home.

In the session titled "Myths about Women", Professor Margaret Maxey of the University of Detroit illustrated the ways in which the media perpetuate myths derived from our cultural and religious past. The image of woman as an unclean being and as an evil temptress pervades the Bible and the breakfast cereal commercial!

Marianne Heller, co-founder and director of "The Inner City Angels" discussed her volunteer-based Toronto organization. The "Angels" have instituted a program which brings creativity and culture to the core city through the visits of artists to schools, the free distribution of tickets to concerts and plays and the establishment of a children's art centre. The possibility of expanding the "Angels" operation to Windsor was treated.

... All about Women

"Awareness through Experience" was the focus of a self discovery session conducted by Joan Daly of the University of Windsor.

The Weekend for Women program was planned and directed by the Advisory Committee of the Centre for Women's Interests and Concerns which is headed by University Dean of Women Evelyn McLean. The centre is attempting to develop a "Women's Reading Room" and donations to the collection would be welcomed. The Centre is able to provide meeting space for groups whose focus is the needs of women.

University of Windsor Review

The University of Windsor Review began its existence in 1965 with an article solicited from Hugh Kenner, an internationally known scholar who had taught at Assumption University for a brief time in the early Forties, along with Wyndham Lewis and Marshall McLuhan (who also sent us an article for a later issue). The balance of that first issue, as well as most of the material in the next few issues, was talent from our own campus. That first issue was printed and bound in our own print shop.

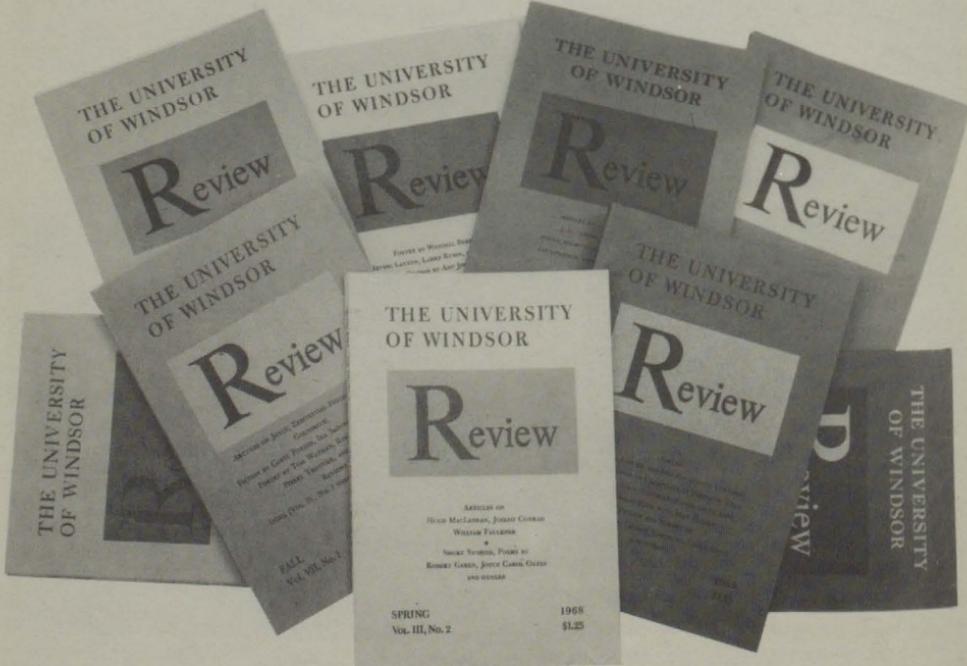

The second issue was done at the University of Toronto Press. Until 1972 all our Reviews were printed there. Now, they are done at Morrissey Printing in Victoria, British Columbia, thought by some to be the most creative printers in the country.

Our early issues, home grown as they were, were equal in quality to the more well established University journals. We began to attract more and more submissions and subscriptions from off campus. We wanted and encouraged submissions from within the University, but we were wary of becoming a house organ and were therefore pleased when the outside attention began to create a necessary balance.

Over these past nine years we have published articles on Great Lakes paintings, on Catherine Reynolds, who was perhaps Ontario's first native born painter, Eskimo art and language, the Loyalists, the films of Bergman and municipal politics in Canada. We have done articles on such modern writers as James Purdy, Robert Lowell, Hugh MacLennan, Joyce, Pound, Nabokov, Lowry, Tolkien and even Erich Segal, whose popular book Love Story was subjected to a merciless analysis in a recent issue. We did special issues on H. G. Wells and John Steinbeck.

It seems obvious that the Review, despite its openness to material on every aspect of human intellectual activity, has developed a special excellence in literature. We have published the short stories of Kent Thompson, Alden Nowlan, Ann Jones, Beth Harvor and W. D. Valgardson among others. Many of these stories afterwards won prizes and honours and found their way into anthologies. Some of the best contemporary poets have appeared in our issues: Joyce Carol Oates, George Bowering, J. Michael Yates, Tom Wayman, Pat Lowther, Irving Layton, Peter Wild, Grew Kuzma and Gwendolyn MacEwan.

Reviews also do reviews. Such scholars as Peter Stevens, John Ditsky and Laurel

Thompson have done review-essays on new novels, poetry and music.

Forthcoming issues will feature an analysis of the popular novel The Day of the Jackal, the novels of John Buchan, Early Music in Windsor, papers from the successful symposium on Heroes and Heroism held here at the University, and stories by Joyce Carol Oates and W. D. Valgardson.

An article in Choice, a magazine for librarians, listed the Review along with Dalhousie Review and Malahat Review as the three best University journals in Canada. I hope our next ten years will keep us on that list.

Preserving our past

A Sports Archive

In the last issue of the Alumni Times, mention was made of the setting up of a sports archives at the University of Windsor by the Sports Institute for Research. In this article an effort will be made to explain the sports archives in more detail.

Archives are defined as the records of any public or private institution which are considered worthy of permanent preservation for reference and research purposes and which have been deposited or have been selected for deposit in an archival institution. Occasionally the term archives is applied to the records of individuals or "personal papers", but in a strict sense the records of individuals should not be considered as archives but rather manuscript collections. The University of Windsor Sports Archives as now established contains both archival materials and personal papers.

The Sports Archives, which is located in the University Library, was begun in 1972 by Professor Dick Moriarty. While working on his doctoral dissertation on "The Organizational History of the Canadian Inter-collegiate Athletic Union Central (C.I.A.U) 1906-1955", the University of Windsor's Director of Sports secured a number of documents created by the C.I.A.U. and its successor organizations, the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association (O.-Q.A.A.) and the Ontario University Athletic Association (O.U.A.A.). In using these Professor Moriarty showed them to Rev. Dan Mulvihill, C.S.B., who commented on their unique research value and suggested plans for their transfer to a place where they might be more properly cared for and their research value put to greater use. In mid 1972 Professor Moriarty approached the Board of Governors of the O.U.A.A. who then possessed the C.I.A.U. documents, and offered to establish a Sports Archives at the University of Windsor. The Board of Governors accepted the offer and a motion was passed stating, "that the University of Windsor be granted guardianship of O.U.A.A.-C.I.A.U. records presently held by the O.U.A.A in order that an O.U.A.A.-C.I.A.U. Archives can be established at the University of Windsor". Prior to this formal approval from the O.U.A.A. to transfer the documents to Windsor, Professor Moriarty had consulted with William Dollar, University Librarian, regarding the establishment of a sports archives. It was decided that the materials forming the University of Windsor Sports Archives would be located in a special room in the Library where they could be properly cared for and from which room they would be available to researchers.

As a result of the action by the O.U.A.A. Board of Governors a number of rich documents on the organizational history of Canadian intercollegiate sports were placed in the University Library and the University of Windsor Sports Archives was begun. Included in the documents originally received from the O.U.A.A. were the minutes of the C.I.A.U. and the O.-Q.A.A. annual meetings dating from 1906 when the C.I.A.U. was first established, Playing Rules and Regulations of the C.I.A.U. for many years, and the minutes of various groups and committees of the O.-Q.A.A. from 1956 to 1972. In addition, Dick Moriarty donated over 50 hours of taped interviews with C.I.A.U. administrators and numerous pictures and pieces of correspondence. Included in this material were interviews with the sole living survivor of the founding meeting of the C.I.A.U., held in 1906, and interviews with Dick Moriarty and Jerry Malone enjoying some of the early scrapbooks now gathered in the University's Sports Archive. Microfilm in the lower left hand corner is an example of modern means of preserving old documents.

Canada's first physical director, athletic director, and intramural director. Since 1972 additional tapes and pictures on the O.Q.A.A. have been donated to the Sports Archives by Cam Innes ('73). Much detailed information on the organization and development of intercollegiate football has been added, including the full records of the Ontario Intercollegiate Athletic Association (1957-1966) and the Central Canadian Intercollegiate Football Conference (1969-1970).

At the same time as he was engaged in gathering materials on the history of Canadian intercollegiate sport, Professor Moriarty and fellow faculty member Al Metcalfe were also working on collecting materials on the history of sports in the Windsor area.

Materials on this subject which are now in the Sports Archives include tapes and transcriptions of interviews with a number of people active in organized sports in Windsor. These interviews were conducted by George Short in 1972 while he was a graduate student at the University of Windsor's Faculty of Physical and Health Education. Among those interviewed were Ian Allison ('32), Rev. Charles Armstrong, C.S.B., John Murray ('27), and William Rogin ('37). In addition to this valuable material the Archives has also received the personal scrapbooks of sports figures in Windsor, including two scrapbooks compiled by Rev. W. P. McGee, C.S.B., when he was coach and athletic director at Assumption College (1923-1937); "Tatter's" Girard's Windsor baseball scrapbooks; Bert Foote and Art Ray's scrapbooks on the history of MicMac; the records of the late Howard Campbell, Ontario Basketball Association and Olympic representative; and the late Walter Lomas' soccer records.

Since being placed in the University Library the materials forming the University of Windsor Sports Archives have been arranged according to archival principles, and in some instances, especially in the case of older and more fragile documents, have been put on microfilm. During the past two years the materials have been used by a number of students throughout Canada and have provided them with much valuable information. This past year Dr. Mike Salter of Windsor's Faculty of Physical and Health Education and chairman of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation History Committee, listed the Windsor Sports Archives among Canada's top storehouses of Sport Canadiana.

There is every hope that the University of Windsor Sports Archives will continue to grow and provide vital resources for research on the history of Canadian inter-collegiate and local sport.

Alumni interested in contributing to the Archives are asked to contact Dick Moriarty, Director of Sports, or Jerry Malone, University of Windsor Library.

J. Malone

Jerry Malone, B.A., M.A. (Windsor) is a Reference Librarian at the University of Windsor, and in charge of the Sports Archive.

Quotable Quotes from the Archives

"They were not allowed to have racing in Michigan. The old ferries were bringing over the patrons. There was the Windsor-Walkerville ferry and the Windsor ferry bringing over patrons from Detroit. There were ferries bringing them over in droves. These tracks were not so far out. But as soon as the tracks were legalized in Michigan they fell apart here within one year." (Fr. Armstrong)

"Sports activities were stimulated by the depression. People had nothing to do and no money to do it, but they always seemed to find money for a ball or a bat or a football or a basketball. Rentals of gyms were cheap and they had to have some activity to while away the time." (Wm. Rogin)

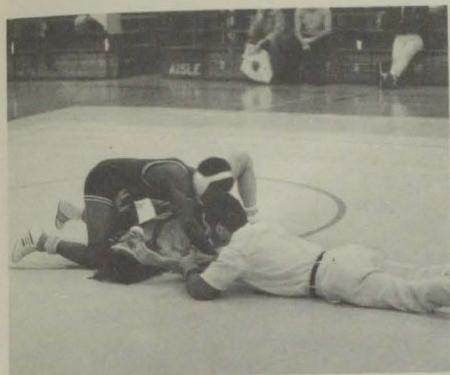

"Red Nantais kept basketball going in the 40's. He volunteered to donate his coaching. He quickly became Mr. Basketball in Canada." (the late Fr. J. M. Hussey)

". . . for years, when Western and Assumption College played, you could find twelve men on the floor all from Windsor, including the two referees . . . Western usually had the better of the football teams, but we had the better of the basketball teams." (Wm. Rogin)

"I saw basketball evolve to its present form. When I first started playing basketball, we in public school won the public school championship by a score of one to nothing. Now why? Simply because basketball was in its infancy at that time really. You shot underhand, that was the first thing, the balls themselves were of such a nature that there was no true flight to anything. After a foul shot, or a basket, the ball was brought back to centre and jumped again." (Wm. Rogin)

"We played the University of Dayton a few times. The first time we went to Dayton they called us the Canadian Farmers and we beat them on their own floor. . . . I guess they thought we were from the woods over here. They did not realize we were right by the border and playing American teams all the time." (Fr. Armstrong)

"I don't think there was that much of a development in Canadian football . . . until the 40's. I recall we used to have in football the 6-3-2-1 defense. And if anyone else put a different defense in, you almost wanted a penalty called, because you had set all your plays up for this defense." (Fr. Armstrong)

PhysEd Facilities

One of the exciting advantages of being a paid-up, card-holding member of the University of Windsor Alumni Association (either on an annual or a lifetime basis) is that it entitles you and your family to use of the University's athletic facilities. In case you've been wondering just what facilities are involved, we are printing below a comprehensive list. The facilities are available for recreational use unless they are in use for academic or sports events. To make sure that the facilities are open, call Ext. 607 or 608 at the University (253-4232).

ST. DENIS HALL (North Campus) — Gymnasium, Locker and Shower Rooms, Combatives Room, Weight Training Room, Lecture Room, Recreational Area (Table Tennis).

Hours of Operation: Monday through Saturday, 12:00 noon to 10:00 p.m.; Sunday, 12:00 noon to 6:00 p.m.

FACULTY OF PHYSICAL AND HEALTH EDUCATION BUILDING (South Campus)— Locker and Shower Rooms, Sauna Baths, Dance Studio and Combatives Room, Weight Training Room, Track Complex, Eight Tennis Courts (four with lights), Five Practice Fields (soccer, football), Two Softball Fields.

Hours of Operation: Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.; Sunday, 12:00 noon to 8:00 p.m.

SWIMMING POOL — Hours of Operation: Monday through Friday, 12:00 noon to 1:30 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.; Saturday, 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon, 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.; Sunday, 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

LOCKER POLICY—Tote lockerette lockers are available on a $5.00 deposit basis, which includes lock, towel and a laundry bag with pin. This deposit is refunded upon termination of use of locker facilities. Lockers must be renewed by August 31.

LETTERS

Dear Mr. Holliday:

Thank you for the new materials you forwarded to me on the University of Windsor.

I am particularly interested in the Alumni Times and your broad sheet on the University. As an old alumnus (class of 1933), it would seem to me that not enough play has been given to the distinction which has been attained by some of the very outstanding members of the faculty. No doubt, it would be difficult to choose among members without making some problems, but surely there is some objective way in which this could be achieved in a defensible way. After all, one does not attend a university primarily because of facilities, beautiful campus and congeniality of the student body alone.

If I were a young student and knew an author as distinguished as Joyce Carol Oates were a member of the faculty and accessible for consultation, I should find it difficult to give serious consideration to attending any other university. Yet, there is no mention of Miss Oates anywhere in the material. Just a suggestion.

Enclosed herewith is a cheque, my contribution this year to the University of Windsor.

Sincerely,
Jay G. Hall
Washington, D.C.

[Alumnus Hall's suggestion is most welcome and will be acted upon in a number of ways in future issues. Ed.]

Dear Alumni Friends:

Many thanks for the attractive basket of fruits which I received yesterday. It was very kind of the Association to think of me for the second time. I sure am counting on participating in the next Alumni event when I hope to see you all.

Sincerely,
Ray Marcotte (A. '26)

[Ray Marcotte, a longtime and enthusiastic alumnus, was seriously ill last fall, but his many friends among the alumni will be glad to know that he is now well on the road to recovery. Ed.]

Dear Alumni:

Received your impressive brochure regarding the latest changes to U. of W. It certainly isn't like the "old" days; we look forward to visiting in the near future. At that time I hope to renew some old friendships and reminisce about my good times in the early 60's.

At present I am chief engineer for Scarborough Cable TV/FM and Credit Valley Cable TV in the Toronto area. Also I serve as CATV consultant to both companies as well as my major function as chief engineer. Things have gone extremely well since 1965 graduation; we have two children since leaving Windsor. We look forward to revisiting some old haunts.

Best regards and hope to visit in the near future.

Sincerely,
Paul Hrvnak (B.A.Sc. '65)

Dear Alumni Association:

Received your letter and also "Alumni Times". Thank you very much for same. How I would like to drop in at your happy gatherings. But being Contemplative and Cloistered — in a word, we don't go out, with the exceptions — going to see the Doctor or going to Hospitals.

I'm always very glad to receive all the booklets and happenings of the University. All of you are in our Concelebrated Mass each morning — In spirit — and also all our offices and sacrifices, that God will direct, bless and bring success to all the grads — each one of you.

Thanks again—

MARRIAGE

MICHAEL CHALUT '72 to KATHRYN LeFAVE '72. The ceremony took place in the University Chapel. After honeymooning in Florida, the couple is living in Windsor.

BIRTHS

PACKER, Mike '71 and Karen (nee Stocks), their first child, a daughter, Lisa Margaret, on April 1, 1974, at Grace Hospital, Windsor.

RIDEOUT, Col. R. A. P. '70 and Marlene, a son, Dean Robert, on March 11, 1974, at Grace Hospital, Windsor. A brother for Candice.

SILVAGGI, Tony '70 and Nina (nee Richardson) their first child, a son, Michael Bryan on December 3, 1973, at Hotel Dieu Hospital.

VANKOUGHNETT, Ron '69 and Mary Angela '63 (nee Marr), a daughter, Shannon, at St. Mary's Hospital, Kitchener on November 30, 1973. A sister for Sean.

DEATHS

SISTER ANNETTE GATIEN, '66 B.Sc. Nursing, on February 19, 1974. Sr. Annette, 40, was director of Nursing at St. Joseph's General Hospital in North Bay. She held the same position at Sudbury General Hospital from 1962 to 1965, and again from 1967 to 1970 before she went to North Bay. She was educated in Copper Cliff and received her nursing degree at Assumption College in Windsor.

Sister Annette is survived by her father, Omer Gatien of Copper Cliff; two sisters, Mrs. Eric Blais of Copper Cliff and Sister Laura Gatien of Loretto Abbey, Toronto; and four brothers — Rev. Father Leonard Gatien of Thunder Bay, Rudy of Aurora, Edward of Sudbury and Gerald of Grafton, Ontario.

REV. VINCENT KENNEDY died peacefully in St. Joseph's Hospital, Houston, Texas, on March 25, 1974. The funeral mass was celebrated on March 26 and burial took place in the Basilian plot, Garden of Gethsemani, Houston.

Vincent Kennedy was born on January 24, 1899, at Kinkora, Ontario, the son of Denis Kennedy and Agnes Malloy. He took his early education at Stratford, Ontario, and Assumption College, Windsor, entering St. Basil's Novitiate, Toronto, in 1917. He received his B.A. in Classics from the University of Toronto in 1923, a Specialist's Certificate from the Ontario College of Education in 1924, and an M.A. in Classics from the University of Toronto in 1925. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1924.

In 1925, Father Kennedy was assigned to Assumption College where for two years he taught and held the office of registrar. He then went to St. Michael's College for one year (1927-28) as principal of the high school. He returned to Assumption as superior and president, and held this position for three years.

In 1931 he began graduate studies in ancient liturgy and archaeology, and was awarded a Licentiate and Doctorate from the Pontifical Institute of Christian Archaeology in Rome. His thesis "The Saints of the Canon of the Mass", published in 1938, established Father Kennedy's reputation in Europe and America as an authority on ancient liturgy, and led to his being named to the Liturgical Commission of Vatican II.

ROBERT WAYNE RONSON, age 28, of 364 Wellington St. W., Chatham, died suddenly as a result of an automobile accident on Thursday, February 28, 1974.

Surviving are his wife Joanne (nee Walker); his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ronson, of Windsor; and one brother, James, of Toronto.

Funeral services were held in the chapel of the Stephen-Alexandar Funeral Home, Chatham, on Saturday, March 2.

Bob Ronson was a 1970 B.A.Sc. graduate of the University of Windsor.

ALDO P. TRUANT, '45, on September 5, 1973 in Rochester, New York. At the time of his death, Mr. Truant was Vice-President for Research and Development of the Penwalt Corporation. A memorial scholarship has been established in his name at the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester, Massachusetts.

THE MOST REV. CHARLES LEO NELLIGAN, D.D., died at Westminster Hospital, London, Ontario on Sunday, March 31, after a long illness. Funeral services for Bishop Nelligan were held at Assumption Church, Windsor, with interment in the Basilian plot at Heavely Rest Cemetery in Windsor. The Most Rev. Gerald Emmett Carter, Bishop of London, was the principal concelebrant, and the Most Rev. Joseph R. Windle, Bishop of Pembroke, preached the homily.

Bishop Nelligan was born in Prince Edward Island in 1894 and educated there, attending Prince of Wales College and the Normal School in Charlottetown. After some years spent teaching school and, during World I, instructing in musketry, he completed a B.A. degree from Laval University, then began theology studies at Grand Seminary in Quebec, in 1925 receiving the degree of Doctor of Divinity and being ordained as a priest.

He was consecrated Bishop in 1937 and installed as the third Bishop of Pembroke.

After the outbreak of World War II, Bishop Nelligan was named Chaplain General of the Canadian Armed Forces by Pope Pius XII. In 1944, on account of illness, he resigned as Chaplain General, retiring with the rank of Brigadier. In 1945 he resigned as Bishop of Pembroke and transferred to the Titular See of Fenice.

In 1947, Bishop Nelligan joined the staff of what is now the University of Windsor, lecturing in Religion, French Literature and History. He relinquished his professional duties in June, 1962, to permit him to attend the sessions of the Second Vatican Council in Rome.

Since then he has been active in assisting local bishops in celebrating the sacrament of confirmation and in giving numerous addresses, a gift for which he has been renowned throughout his professional life. He continued to live with the Basilian Fathers as a member of the community at Assumption University until he took up residence at Westminster Hospital. It is most fitting that he be buried among the deceased of the Basilian Fathers in Windsor.

A PERSONAL TRIBUTE

Bishop Nelligan was universally admired and loved because he was intensely human and dealt with everybody in human terms.

Though he was a prelate he was an extremely humble man filled with charity; he was friendly and kind and altogether a gentle man. As an educator and a pedagogue he was probably one of the kindest and best teachers imaginable. His method in the classroom was unique and he was constantly able to carry the course forward while always maintaining its continuity. An understanding teacher, he was full of compassion for his students. For his colleagues, he was a tower of strength and the source of unselfish counsel steeped in wisdom.

Those who have known him well, keenly feel not only a sense of personal loss but will also feel a great void as if some part of themselves has gone for ever, so much was the "old" Bishop able to touch everybody he came in contact with.

Summer Accommodation

The Housing Office would like to extend an invitation to University of Windsor alumni and their families to make use of our residence facilities in the summer. During the period from May 5 until August 23, 1974 our facilities will be available to alumni at the same reasonable rates we offer to conferences:

$5.50 per night for a double room
(per person)

$8.00 per night for a single room
Children are welcome but we cannot accommodate pets. Advance reservations are required and can be made by contacting the Housing Office.

We hope that alumni who are traveling in the Windsor-Detroit area will choose to stay on campus — for the sake of economy and/or nostalgia.

From Your Director

Dear Friends:

I should like to express my gratitude to all who have kindly communicated congratulations on my appointment as Director of Alumni Affairs. I sincerely hope to live up to your expectations!

Since March 1, I have had the pleasure of meeting a goodly number of you in various centres throughout Canada and the United States. It is my hope to continue my visits with the express purpose of meeting more of you. The enthusiasm exhibited by old and new graduates alike has created an air of optimism rarely found within the confines of any institution. It is our hope to nurture this enthusiasm and, through planned programs, to continue to develop this sense of Alumni unity.

I should like to extend a particularly warm welcome to our new graduates of Class of '74. In my recent note to you, I asked for your involvement in Alumni Affairs. Your response to date has been most gratifying and your involvement much appreciated and welcome.

To each and every one of our alumni, I ask for the opportunity and pleasure of serving you. If this office can be of any assistance, regardless of how major or minor the matter, please feel free to contact us. It will be our pleasure to assist you.

Gabe DeLuca
Director, Alumni Affairs

From Your President

Summer is well on its way and we can start looking towards fall and include in our plans—Homecoming '74 on October 25, 26, and 27.

During this past year the response to Active Membership has been most gratifying to your Board of Directors. The roll of Life Members continues to grow. Yearly memberships, both new and renewals, are keeping pace. This continued interest in our university on the part of our Alumni shows that they appreciate what they received and are interested in its affairs and development.

The response by the Alumni in other centres to visits by our Director, Gabe Deluca and members of the faculty predicts the formation of new chapters and renewed activity on the part of established ones. This is a further indication of the interest of our members in the educational and research facilities of our university and its role in community life.

As you can see in the announcements, Homecoming this year promises to be the best yet. As well as the many social and sports activities, there will be our Annual Meeting with the election of officers for the coming year and the election of directors whose terms of office expire this year. Don't forget, you have to be here to participate.

I congratulate Alumnus Ed Lumley on his election to Canada's 30th parliament by the electors of the riding of Stormont-Dundas. The Alumni Association honoured Ed at last year's homecoming by presenting him with its highest honour, the Alumni Award.

I welcome the graduates of 1974 to the Alumni. Don't forget to join our active ranks as it is complimentary for you in your first Alumni year.

See you at Homecoming '74.

ALUMNI OFFICE MOVE

The Office of Alumni Affairs — YOUR office at the University of Windsor — is in new quarters on the main floor of the West Library Building (the "old" Library). There is also a new alumni telephone number — Extension 873 — reached through the main University switchboard number, 253-4232.

ALUMNI HOCKEY CLUB

Another alumni "first"—the newly-formed University of Windsor Alumni Hockey Club which will be playing in the Windsor Civic Hockey League this winter. The team is made up of ex-Lancers and other alumni, with playing coach Tom McFadden, a veteran of five years on the Lancer hockey team.

Alumni who wish to cheer their team on to victory are encouraged to attend the Monday night games at the Adstoll Arena, Adstoll and Pillette in Windsor. The season begins on October 7.

FREE TUITION FOR OVER-60's

The Board of Governors of the University of Windsor voted at a recent meeting to waive tuition fees on courses taken at this University by all persons aged 60 years and over.

The decision by the Board of Governors is an official recognition by the University of Windsor of the valuable dimension which senior citizens by their life-skills and experiences can add to the University and the larger community.

Senior citizens who are interested in taking courses at the University are invited to call Rev. E. C. Pappert, C.S.B., Dean of Extension and Continuing Education; Rosary Carney, Assistant Registrar, Admissions; or Paul Holliday, Director of External Liaison and Registrar.

SUDBURY

The Sheraton Caswell Motor Hotel was the scene of a Wine and Cheese held by the Sudbury Chapter on Thursday evening, June 13.

John McAuliffe, newly appointed Vice-President Academic, and Gabe DeLuca were visiting guests from the University of Windsor. Mr. McAuliffe gave a brief report on the University, outlining its spectacular growth in the late 60's.

The Sudbury steering committee is looking to a continuing social and educational program for 1974-75.

OTTAWA

On Thursday evening, June 20, while many in the Nation's Capitol were experiencing election fever, the Ottawa Chapter was engaged in International Affairs. The topic was China and the speaker was Dr. Paul Thomas of the Faculty of Physical and Health Education. Dr. Thomas gave a slide presentation of his trip to China as coach of the Canadian Olympic "B" basketball team. His talk covered cultural, educational and sports activities of the peoples of China. The many questions asked of the speaker were evidence of how enthusiastically the topic was received.

The Ottawa Steering Committee hopes to continue with an expanded social and educational program in 1974-75.

HAMILTON

On Friday evening, May 24 last, the Hamilton Chapter sponsored a highly successful social evening. Most encouraging was the variance in class years which ranged from class of '32 to class of '73. Gabe DeLuca, Director of Alumni Affairs, was in attendance and presented two video tapes highlighting the many facets of the University of Windsor, its staff, students and programs.

During the summer, the steering committee met on a number of occasions. As a result, on Friday evening, November 8, the Hamilton Chapter will sponsor a Dinner Dance at the Burlington Golf and Country Club. We look forward to seeing an even greater turnout for what should be a truly enjoyable evening.

Any alumnus new to the Hamilton area who wishes information regarding events or who simply wants to meet other Windsor graduates, please call 388-0563 in Hamilton.

1974 Windsor Chapter Golf Tournament

Seventy-eight Detroit and Windsor Chapter alumni and guests were scheduled to participate in the Alumni Tournament on June 15 and almost all of them got off the first tee before numerous heavy downpours and a great deal of lightning closed the Kingsville course and chased the golfers into the 19th Hole.

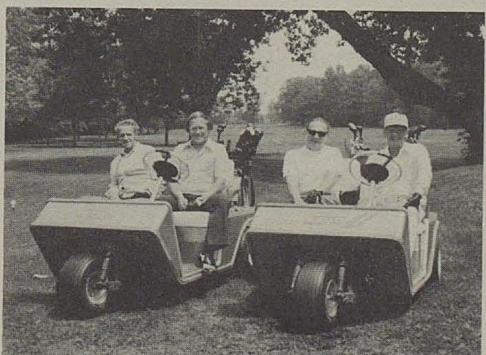

This was the first Alumni Tournament in recent memory to be rained out but regardless of the rain the golfers did enjoy the day. Many stayed for dinner, some socializing, and the distribution of numerous door prizes.

Despite the cancellation, just as much work went into planning the event and the Chapter wants to thank the Golf Committee for their efforts: Jim Curry, Wayne Curtin, Joe Saso and Richard Woodall. Also our thanks to Tommy Bannon and Molson's for their great cooperation again this year.

APPOINTMENTS

Dean of Arts

Dean of Science and Mathematics

The appointment of two Deans was announced this spring by the President of the University of Windsor, Dr. J. F. Leddy.

The appointment of Dr. C. P. Gravenor as Dean of Science and Mathematics and of Fr. Eugene R. Malley, C.S.B. as Dean of Arts resulted from the recent division of the Faculty of Arts and Science into three faculties. A third appointment awaits completion of appointment procedures. The new faculties — Arts, Science and Mathematics, Social Sciences — came into being on July 1.

A geologist, Dr. Gravenor has had wide experience both of the university world and in business. Following Canadian Army service in Canada and Europe in the Second World War, he studied Geology at the University of Toronto, achieving a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1949.

Dr. Gravenor then went to the University of Wisconsin, where he was awarded a Master of Science degree in 1950 for work in Geology and Mineralogy, and to the University of Indiana where study in Geology and Chemistry brought him a Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1952. He subsequently, in 1956, did a year of postdoctoral study at Cornell University.

In 1952, Dr. Gravenor joined the staff of the University of Alberta as an Assistant Professor. Four years later he became Chief Geologist for the Research Council of Alberta. In 1960 he became Chief of the Earth Sciences Branch for the Council.

Dr. Gravenor spent 1963-64 with the Iron and Steel Research Institute of the France and Nordac Chemical Company of England, before returning to the Alberta Research Council as Assistant Director. In 1965 he became Technical Director of Peace River Mining and Smelting Ltd., a post held until his appointment in 1970 as Vice-Dean of Science and Mathematics and Professor of Geology at this University.

Dr. Gravenor is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, the Geological Survey of Canada and the Geological Association of Canada.

Fr. Malley is a graduate of the University of Toronto with the degrees Bachelor of Arts (1948) and Master of Arts (1952). Further graduate study at the Angelicum in Rome brought him his Licentiate in Sacred Theology in 1953 and his Doctorate in Sacred Theology the following year.

A member of the Congregation of St. Basil, he was ordained in 1951.

Fr. Malley began a considerable teaching career as an instructor at the University of Toronto as a graduate student. He returned there as Lecturer in 1954, and, in the same period, as Assistant Professor of the University of St. Michael's College. In 1958 he became Associate Professor there and Dean of Studies at St. Basil's Seminary.

Dean Malley

Ken Long

In 1964 he joined the staff of the University of Windsor as an Associate Professor, becoming Professor in 1968. From 1964 to 1969 he was Head of the Department of Theology. The following year he was appointed Vice-Dean of Humanities.

In 1967, Fr. Malley was elected President of the federated Assumption University, remaining in that post until 1972. He had served four years as Superior of St. Basil's Seminary and five as Superior at Assumption University.

Assistant Dean of Students

The appointment of a new Assistant Dean of Students at the University of Windsor was announced in May by University President J. F. Leddy. Kenneth F. Long, 32, a Windsor graduate (B.A. 1965, M.A. 1967) who is at present a Ph.D. candidate at Wayne State University, will be assisting Windsor's Dean of Students, G. A. McMahon.

Mr. Long has taught literature courses at Assumption High School, the University of Windsor, and Wayne State University. He is the winner of a Robarts Fellowship (1966-7) and a tuition scholarship to Wayne State (1971-3). His involvement in university and community life has included participation as one of two recent graduates on a committee to evaluate the University of Windsor's Honours English Program, initiation of a tutorial centre employing English majors to supplement freshman literature and composition courses at Wayne State University, chairmanship of the committee for evaluation and revision of the remedial composition course for inner city students at Wayne State University, participation in the organization of Wayne State graduate students representative to the Graduate Faculty Committee, and membership on the organizational committee for the 1971 convention of the Midwest Modern Language Association, the Budget Review Committee of United Community Services of Greater Windsor, the Professional Development Committee of the University of Windsor's English Department, and the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

Mr. Long replaces Gabriel DeLuca, former Dean of Men, recently appointed Director of Alumni Affairs at the University of Windsor.

Kent Centre Report

A Campus that Reaches Out

"A post-secondary educational system which is open to every individual, which responds to the diversity of individual needs and wants, which has the flexibility to respond to changes in the individual's needs and wants, and which is innovative enough to anticipate his future needs and wants." (from the Aims and Objectives section of the 1972 Draft Report of the Commission on Post-Secondary Education in Ontario, the "Wright Report")

The so-called "Wright Report" sparked a lot of controversy in the Ontario university system. But amidst all that was debatable in the document was much that was indisputably basic to the ideals of modern post-secondary education, notably the concepts of "outreach" and "accessibility".

With these concepts in mind, the University of Windsor, like other educational institutions, has been taking a close look at its relationships with the larger community, and its responsibility to serve people who for reasons of age, academic background, finances, or distance, haven't been able to pursue post-secondary educations. The result has been a growing conviction that if Mohammed can't come to the mountain, then the mountain should try to go to Mohammed.

The University of Windsor has been doing just that with the creation of Kent Centre, the University's Chatham campus. Staffed by a Co-ordinator of Extra-Mural Programs, Clare MacLeod, and his assistant Margaret Landstrom, the Kent Centre office begins where the teacher-oriented summer and evening courses left off. With teaching requirements having been tightened, the old situation of teacher upgrading during the summers and evenings is becoming less significant. The Kent Centre office can now look to identifying new educational needs and trying to meet them.

The Kent Centre office was set up in Chatham in January 1974, in a small downtown office on 5th Street. In the words of co-ordinator Clare MacLeod, it was hoped that with the establishment of a University presence in Kent County, the people there would begin to think of the University of Windsor as "their local university". Besides the physical presence that makes information so much more easily accessible, Kent Centre has taken active steps to reach the Kent community. Discussions and surveys have been initiated with area community colleges, boards of education, high school teachers and students. A special counselling session held on a rainy evening in May attracted over 100 interested persons from the Chatham community who came to meet Windsor professors and administrative officers. Advertising, radio and newspaper articles, and visits by Mr. MacLeod to local civic organizations have also helped to make the people of Chatham aware of the University of Windsor and the services it is providing. And, to add an extra dimension to its services, Kent Centre and the Chatham Public Library organized a series of seminars on the 1974 Stratford offerings which were given by University of Windsor professors and very well received.

The result of all this interest and effort

"In a 'Learning Society', lifelong education is the focus for the future. Along with democracy, and flexibility, continuity has become a watchword in education." (F. A. DeMarco, Report on Extension and Continuing Education, University of Windsor, 1974)

"More educational, and thus career opportunities should be available to all those who wish to study part-time or return to study later in life, particularly women and older persons." (Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.)

to date is the offering of 25 credit courses in Chatham this fall. It is now possible to be a full-time as well as an extension student on the Chatham "campus" and to take a full first year's courses in Arts, Business Administration, or Social Work. Besides the obvious convenience of part-time studies, this combination of full and part-time offerings makes it possible as Mr. MacLeod explains, for an individual to cut university costs significantly by living at home, gain a full first year's credits, and then make a decision about further study.

Having once expanded its base from Windsor to Chatham, the University is expanding even more, to Sarnia, where, like Chatham, courses leading to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree are being offered, in response to the interest expressed by Registered Nurses in the area, and also to Leamington where three courses are being offered this fall — in Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology.

Clare MacLeod does not like to generalize about the people who are taking advantage of the Kent Centre courses, probably because generalizations are meaningless vis-à-vis such a broad cross section of people. Among those who have expressed interest are people in their 20's who either dropped out of secondary school before graduation, or else didn't continue their formal education after high school graduation. There are also social workers, clergymen, nurses, housewives, people who are in, if not past, middle age.

In line with the concept of accessibility are several new University policies: free tuition to senior citizens (see article elsewhere in the Times), daily transportation to and from Windsor in cases where necessary first year courses can't be offered in Chatham, and the supplying of relevant books and other reference materials to the Chatham Public Library, where Kent Centre students and the larger community can have easy access to them. And rather than embarking on a costly building program, Kent Centre is attempting to share facilities whenever possible, through use of the St. Clair College Thames Campus and secondary schools in Chatham, and Lambton College in Sarnia.

Clare MacLeod says rather modestly that the results of his and Margaret Landstrom's efforts to date are "not spectacular". Be that as it may, the results are certainly significant and the potential of the Kent Centre operation for future terms is even more exciting.

(For more information about the Kent Centre operation, contact the office at 12-5th St. in Chatham, telephone 519-351-1381.)

Football's centennial — an exciting year

1974-75 Lancer Season

The 1974 edition of the University of Windsor Lancer Football team opened a challenging seven game schedule on Saturday, September 14, against the York University Yoemen at the south campus field. The schedule includes road games at Waterloo, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the University of Western Ontario on September 21, October 5 and October 19, respectively; as well as home dates against the Mustangs, University of Guelph Gryphons and McMaster on September 28, October 12 and October 26.

The OUAA Western section playoffs begin with the quarter finals on Saturday, November 2, when the first place finisher will host the fourth place team and the Number 2 squad will entertain the 3rd place team. The semi-final will follow on November 9 at the home of the highest finishing semi-finalist. The winner of this contest will join the Eastern OUAA finalist as co-holders of the coveted Yates Cup, emblematic of OUAA supremacy. The Eastern champion will journey to the Maritimes to participate in the Atlantic Bowl, while the Western champ will host the Western Intercollegiate Football Conference king in the other CIAU semi-final Bowl Game. The season will climax in Toronto on November 23, when the survivors clash in the CIAU College Bowl.

Since 1974 marks the centennial of Canadian Intercollegiate Football, this year's Homecoming (October 25, 26, 27) will reflect upon the last hundred years of college football in Windsor. It is hoped that all former coaches, captains, players and alumni will be on hand for the festivities which feature the game vs. the McMaster Marauders and a look at Assumption and Windsor football over the last 100 years.

Coach Fracas, in looking ahead to the 1974 season stated, "It's going to be a tough road all the way — particularly since it will be somewhat of a rebuilding year for us. It promises to be an eventful and exciting season, however, and as our young team matures, we'll make our presence felt."

Current Chemistry Research

A chemist at the University of Windsor, Dr. Gordon W. Wood, with the support of the medical profession and the federal government, is undertaking research aimed at helping save the lives of babies as they are born.

A common danger facing newborn babies, and especially those born prematurely, is the inability to breathe properly.

If their lungs are not mature, they may well suffer from a form of respiratory lung distress called hyaline membrane disease.

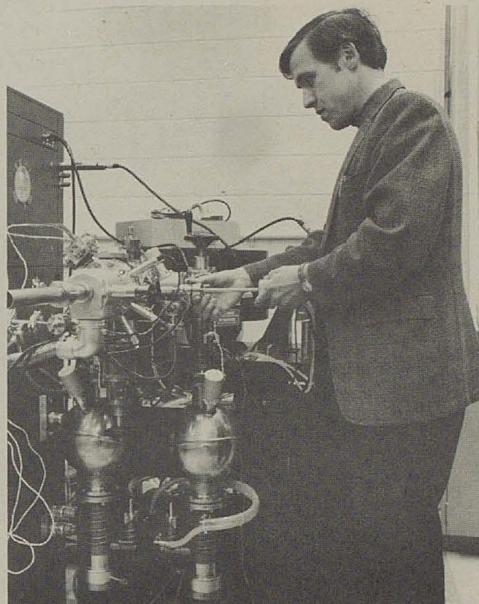

Such complications from immature lungs cause at least 2,000 infant deaths each year in Canada, and many more survivors are affected seriously during the first days of life.

A major problem facing the obstetrician in deciding whether or not to undertake a Caesarian operation to deliver a baby prematurely is in determining whether the unborn baby's lungs are mature enough, or whether the baby risks hyaline membrane disease. There are tests at present, but they are not precise.

The doctor's problem is often complicated further because the unborn child may have other problems that make the operation desirable. The doctor has to judge the best time to give the child the best survival chance; the better his information, the more accurate his judgment will be.

It is in this area — working toward a more accurate test of the unborn child's lung capacity — that Dr. Wood is undertaking research in co-operation with Dr. Gordon M. Jasey, chief of obstetrics at Grace Hospital, and, through him, other obstetricians in Windsor.

An indicator of the lung capacity of the unborn child is found in the chemical make-up of the amniotic fluid. This is the fluid which surrounds the unborn child. It contains certain molecules called phospholipids that are crucial to the working of the child's lungs. Phospholipids, like soaps and detergents, are composed of a polar (water-like) portion and a non-polar (oil-like) portion. Their action in the lung is based on the fact that such "split-personality" molecules exert a major influence on the surfaces of the lung where oxygen is being taken up.

Until recently, the specific analysis of these molecules without their breaking down was not possible. However, the development of a recent technique — field desorption mass spectrometry — provides the opportunity.

Not long ago, the Department of Chemistry and Dr. Wood obtained the instrument needed to do this kind of analysis. In April he was given an operating grant of $32,000 by the Health and Welfare Department of Canada to tackle this particular application.

Windsor obstetricians are arranging for the supply of samples, and, through Dr. Jasey, consultation on the results. Dr. Wood and Dr. Jasey do not expect the analysis to be a test in itself, as the technique is too complex for routine hospital work. What they do hope for is information that will lead to the development of a relatively simple hospital test.

Such a test would help greatly in reducing the number of infant deaths due to lung problems at birth.

Rev. J. Stanley Murphy, C.S.B., retired as Executive Director of Assumption University's Christian Culture Series on June 30, 1974. Rev. L. Kennedy, C.S.B., President of Assumption University, made the announcement, adding that Father Murphy will remain with the Series as Honorary Chairman and Advisor. The new Executive Director is Mrs. Mary Hogan, who has been assisting Father Murphy with the Series for the past 14 years.

Founded by Father Murphy in 1934 and directed by him during the 40 seasons since, the Christian Culture Series has been a means of bringing to this area musicians and speakers of consistently high calibre. Best known among the speakers is Archbishop Fulton Sheen who opened the original series and will appear again this year for the 37th time. Among other well-known figures who have come to Windsor are Baroness Von Trapp, Barbara Ward, Max Ferguson, Marshall McLuhan, John Howard Griffin, Henry Kissinger, the Hon. Paul Martin, Evelyn Waugh, Jacques Maritain, and Jean Vanier.

Outstanding musical events have become annual traditions in the Series, like the Detroit Symphony which will return this year for its 65th and 66th concerts in the Series. The Canadian National Ballet comes to Windsor under the auspices of the Series, as have done the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and the National Arts Centre Orchestra. Pianist Glenn Gould appeared here as a Christian Culture Series soloist early in his career.

A significant offshoot of the Christian Culture Series is the Christian Culture Award, a gold medal awarded every year since 1941 to an "outstanding lay exponent of Christian ideals". Recipients include Sigrid Undset, Jacques Maritain, Henry Ford II, Hon. Paul Martin, Barbara Ward, Marshall McLuhan, and Jean Vanier.

In 1972 a specially struck Christian Culture Award was presented to Father Murphy who in the words of University of Windsor president J. F. Leddy, "has brought over the years serious music, serious literature, and serious thought to this district". Father Murphy has also been honoured with the honorary D.Litt. degree from Laval University in 1966, in recognition of his contribution to Christian culture.

News from Hong Kong Grads

After his visit to mainland China, as a member of the official Canadian Delegation on University Education, Dr. J. F. Leddy, President of the University of Windsor, stopped over for a day in Hong Kong to visit with members of the University's alumni. He was able to join eight of them for dinner on the evening of Monday, July 15. One of the group, Dr. H. B. Ip (B.Sc. '62), was in Hong Kong on a visit with friends and relatives. Since his graduation from Windsor he has completed his M.D. degree and is in general practice in Willowdale, Ontario. The other seven are now resident in Hong Kong, and are graduates of the period 1970-74. They are:

Frank Chao, B.A.Sc., (E.E. - Computer Science) 1972

Andre Houang, B.A.Sc., (E.E. - Computer Science) 1971
M.A.Sc., (E.E.) 1973

Lester Lo, B.A.Sc., (I.E.) 1974

Peter Ng, B.A.Sc., (I.E.) 1974

Henry Yau, M.A.Sc., (Chem. Eng.) 1972

Raymond Yip, M.A., (Econ.) 1971

K. S. Wong, B.A.Sc., (Chem. Eng.) 1970

The earlier graduates were very anxious to have information about the most recent developments at the University, and several of them, who had taken graduate work, gave Dr. Leddy messages of esteem and goodwill to bring back to some of their favorite professors.

The Alumni Times is listed in Canadian Advertising Rates and Data as accepting advertisements for whole or part pages. The magazine has a net circulation of 12,151 as of September 1973, subject to increase with each new class of graduates. It is sent to the faculty and staff of the University as well as to all alumni. Rate cards have been prepared and are available from the Editor.

From the Office Of the Alumni Association

We are encouraged and we want you to share this encouragement.

Current enrolment at the University of Windsor is substantially ahead of that of a year ago. This increase is a reality notwithstanding the fact that the prediction had been for a decline, and the further fact that half of the universities of the province and many other institutions across the land have suffered decline for the second straight year.

Homecoming '73 was a delightful occasion, well attended and well supported by alumni from near and far, by our students and Students' Administrative Council, by our stalwart athletes (great game, Ginol) and by our university support staff who provided exceptional services. The Awards Banquet was a memorable event, graced by delightful and distinguished honoured guests mentioned elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

During the last part of November and early December it was my pleasure to attend what I would call "leadership meetings" with alumni in Rochester, Ottawa, Sudbury and Hamilton, and to visit with our friends of the Toronto Chapter at the gala Christmas Party at the Royal York Roof Gardens.

In all of these places, as well as in Windsor, I have been impressed with the fact that this University is blessed with alumni of great calibre who have a very real concern, not only for the future of the Alumni Association and its chapters, but for this great university as well.

It is a pleasure to be working with these people and with all of you as we seek ways and means to improve and develop our organization, our communication and our services in the field of higher education. We are encouraged. Thanks for your encouragement.

Paul T. Holliday
Director of External Liaison

Paul Holliday, Director of External Liaison, addressing Alumni Awards Dinner at Homecoming.

From Your President

Joe and Elaine Stefani at the Windsor Chapter Christmas party.

Dear Alumni:

The Board of Directors, following the Annual Meeting, has set up committees to look into various aspects of the organization with a view to strengthening it and making its support role a more meaningful one in the life of the University. One of the major steps taken during the presidency of Michael Zin has been the setting up of the Active Alumni, and the numbers are growing in Annual and Life Members.

Last October, I represented our Alumni at a meeting of fourteen Ontario University Alumni Presidents. One of the common concerns was the Ontario Government Committee on Post-Secondary Education Report. Associations were to work with their universities with regard to any action in this area.

While there was to be no formal organization of the Alumni Presidents, there are to be further meetings, the next one in April at which the following areas of common concern are to be on the agenda: (1) Liaison with undergraduates; (2) Involvement of new graduates; (3) Geographic representation on Alumni Executive; (4) Regional branch development; (5) Further communication between alumni associations; (6) Reciprocal privileges such as athletic facilities.

I hope that some plan for the mutual exchange of athletic and library privileges may be developed so that our Active Alumni in other centres may participate in this aspect of our organization. I would appreciate receiving your ideas and comments on any of these or other alumni matters.

Enthusiastic student support and involvement was very evident at Homecoming '73. This illustrates the activity that will highlight the association when these people join us as Alumni. I would offer special thanks to Dan Markovich, S.A.C. Homecoming Chairman, Geoff Schmitz, S.A.C. President, and to the editor and staff of the Lance. I would be remiss if I didn't express thanks to Paul Holliday, Lee Latter, the Alumni Office staff, and all who planned and participated in our homecoming.

I welcome you, the graduates of 1973, to the Active Alumni for the coming year and hope to meet many of you as you participate in alumni affairs. Our chapters continue to be active and I was pleased to make and renew acquaintances at the Windsor and Toronto Christmas parties.

Looking forward to my year as your President,

Joe Stefani

Homecoming 1973 Style

You could say it all started Friday night at the Homecoming registration desk. But of course it didn't, really. It started any number of years ago as different classes of graduates derived from their years at this University experiences and loyalties strong enough and valuable enough to become part of them and bring them home for this late October weekend. Recent graduates, members of the earlier Assumption classes, alumni from literally far and near — all converged on the University Centre, which was (with the vital exception of the football field) the focal point for Homecoming.

FRIDAY night, arriving alumni kept Lee, Shirley, and Betty busy at the registration desk before scattering to the bar, where wine and cheese were available; the piano, where Firth Hubbell was providing a musical background of old songs; and the chairs and lounges, placed for informal conversations.

Around 10:30 there was a mass exodus to the student pub where pub manager Les Minear was auctioning off such campus notables as Frank DeMarco, Geoff MacGibbon, George McMahon, Evelyn McLean, Barbara Taylor, and Joe Saso. Buyers got four hours of work from their temporary slaves, and the local United Way campaign got the proceeds. It was a hilarious sequence, as our photographs show, and an opportunity for alumni and students to meet.

SATURDAY morning, the featured event was the student-sponsored Homecoming parade — for those of us who were up early enough to enjoy it!

Luncheon came next, in the Alumni Lounge of the University Centre, followed by the Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association and the election of its officers.

Alumni Association president Michael Zin welcomed the guests. Joe Stefani, chairman of the membership committee, reported on the year's activities of his committee, which has been promoting the Active Alumni concept in a variety of ways, with the result that the Association now includes 525 annual members and 54 life members.

Then came the elections. Joe Stefani became president by acclamation, with Armando DeLuca and Connie Jankovic as first and second vice-presidents, and Don Kasta, Dave Wilson, Art Weingarden, Mike Moodrey, and Pete Moran as newly elected Directors. Special recognition was given by outgoing president Zin to Chuck Collini who Saturday ended over a decade of service on the Alumni Association Board of Directors.

The annual meeting then adjourned, with the metamorphosis of serious alumni into wildly enthusiastic fans who cheered the Lancers on to victory over Waterloo, before retreating — in need of internal as well as external warmth — to the convivial atmosphere of Dick Moriarty's Cellar (the Faculty Lounge in Vanier Hall).

Saturday evening was the Alumni Awards Dinner, an innovation this year and an impressive grand finale for the Homecoming weekend. Flowers, candlelight, formal attire—all indicated that this was a very special event for the alumni.

Mike Zin, who was chairman for the evening, announced the awarding of two honorary life memberships. One, to Rev. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B., the first president of the University of Windsor, to be presented at the Toronto chapter Christmas party on December 7. The second, to former Alumni Director Rod J. Scott, was presented that evening and accepted by Rod with thanks for all the support he had received as director.

Special greetings and best wishes were expressed to Ray Marcotte and Dick Moriarty, two loyal alumni who were forced by illness to miss this Homecoming.

Three Alumni Awards were presented by the Senior Vice-President of the University, F. A. DeMarco, to W. T. Grant, Ed Lumley, and Art Weingarden, for their services to the Alumni Association. The applause which greeted the citations (reprinted later in the issue) was varied by the singing of "Happy Birthday" to Ed Lumley who celebrated his 34th birthday on Saturday. Frank DeMarco, as well as presenting the Alumni Awards, brought official greetings from the University of Windsor.

The Windsor Chapter Award for participation at the chapter level was presented to Joseph Stefani who had headed the new Membership Committee.

A special introduction was made of Paul Holliday, who was last spring appointed Director of External Liaison, a position which includes responsibility for alumni affairs.

Paul spoke of some of the great concerns facing the University of Windsor today, and urged the Alumni Association to become involved in those concerns in practical ways. He assured the alumni that their Association had been brought to a state of great potential by Rod Scott, and called on them to support it with their ideas, suggestions, and constructive criticisms. He also noted that in a time of widespread declines in university enrollments, the University of Windsor's enrollment has risen, and gave some credit for this to alumni support.

Joe Stefani then stepped forward as incoming president to thank his predecessor Mike Zin, who was, in Joe's words, "a hard act to follow". As the Association's new president, Joe promised to do his very best.

And, on that happy note, the speeches ended and the dancing began, to the music of the Raymond Michael Group.

SUNDAY noon was scheduled for the first meeting of the newly elected Alumni Association Board of Directors, but for most alumni the dancing on Saturday night was the last formal event of Homecoming—for another year! Like Christmas, Homecoming is an annual happening—a happening that doesn't just happen, but is dependent on the hard work of its organizers and the hearty participation of as many alumni as possible. Homecoming '73 was a GREAT weekend—SEE YOU ALL NEXT YEAR!

CITATIONS

William T. Grant

William T. Grant is a loyal friend of this University. He was among the first to engage actively in the promotion of the new University of Windsor. He was one of the original directors of Essex College, when that institution was still part of Assumption University. When the University was founded under the name University of Windsor, he was elected to its Board of Governors. In his capacity as governor, he chaired the Facilities and Maintenance Committee, responsible for all construction and building. He resigned from this committee to head "Program 25 for Today".

At a time of international public concern over campus unrest, Mr. Grant provided the quality of leadership necessary to attain the goal of "Program 25" which was in excess of $6 million.

The University was but a part of Mr. Grant's contribution to his country and to his community. A distinguished soldier and respected businessman, he served as president of the Windsor Chamber of Commerce and later as vice-president and president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. Additionally, he served as vice-chairman and chairman of the Metropolitan Hospital Board of Governors and as director of the United Community Services of Greater Windsor, the United Fund, Essex Golf and Country Club, the Windsor Club and is a founding member of the Windsor Curling Club. He is a member of the Kirk Session of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. His association with numerous community projects is a matter of record and is too extensive to be enumerated here.

Through Mr. Grant, we extend our warmest greetings to his wife Janet, the lady who shares with him in a life of accomplishment.

It is in recognition of Mr. Grant's service, support and loyalty to the University that the Alumni Association proudly presents him with its highest award.

1973 Alumni Awards

Edward C. Lumley

The accomplishments of Ed Lumley, fondly known to many of us as "Skip", have won him at the age of 34 the respect, admiration and approval that the University of Windsor Alumni Association reserves for only its most distinguished members.

In those 34 years the special blend of energy, enthusiasm and charm that is Ed Lumley has come to the fore in athletics, business, and community affairs. During his high school and university years here in his home town of Windsor, Ed won particular recognition in sports, especially as quarterback of the AKO football team. In 1962, he won his greatest prize, Riverside's lovely Pat Thompson. Settling in Cornwall where he and Pat now have four very fine children, Ed has earned notable business success, and, at the age of 32, he crowned community service ranging from coaching with the Cornwall Royals Jr. A hockey team to Hospital Board and Community College Advisory Council memberships, with his election as Mayor of Cornwall.

Particular testimony to his success as Mayor of this important Ontario city of almost 50,000 — many of whose residents, including our distinguished Chancellor, have special ties with the University of Windsor — is easy to find. Last week Ed was appointed the Treasurer of Ontario's five-man task force on investment policy for funds of the Ontario Municipal Retirement Board of which he is also a member. This week's Financial Post refers to special developmental monies to be directed to Cornwall by both the Provincial and Federal governments, and those of us who have kept in touch with Ed know how hard he has worked for these.

During his years away from Windsor, Ed has not forgotten his University. Especially in recent years he has encouraged many able students to study here and in 1971 was a charter member of his class's 10th anniversary Commerce Class of '61 Prize Fund.

I know I express the very great pleasure of all of you who have renewed acquaintance with Ed today that in spite of his long list of accomplishments, that special blend of energy, enthusiasm and charm that was Ed Lumley is still Ed Lumley.

And today, on his 34th birthday, it is the very great pleasure of the Alumni Association of the University of Windsor to bestow its highest honour on an alumnus of whom it is so justifiably proud, Ed Lumley, Class of '61.

Arthur B. Weingarden

Arthur B. Weingarden, a loyal and distinguished son of this his Alma Mater, has served her in numerous ways. As a member of the Alumni Board of Directors and later as President, he was associated with the codification of the Constitution, initiating what was then known as the Alumni Annual Fund, with the organization of Chapters beyond the boundaries of the Border Cities, and with connecting Homecomings to significant sports events.

In parallel with his Alumni activity, this award recipient has served his community with similar dedication and effectiveness.

This service has included Presidency of his synagogue for four years, Board memberships in Children's Group Therapy, the Boy Scouts, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Windsor Chamber of Commerce, the Estate Planning Council and the Essex Law Association. In addition, he has fulfilled executive functions in these organizations.

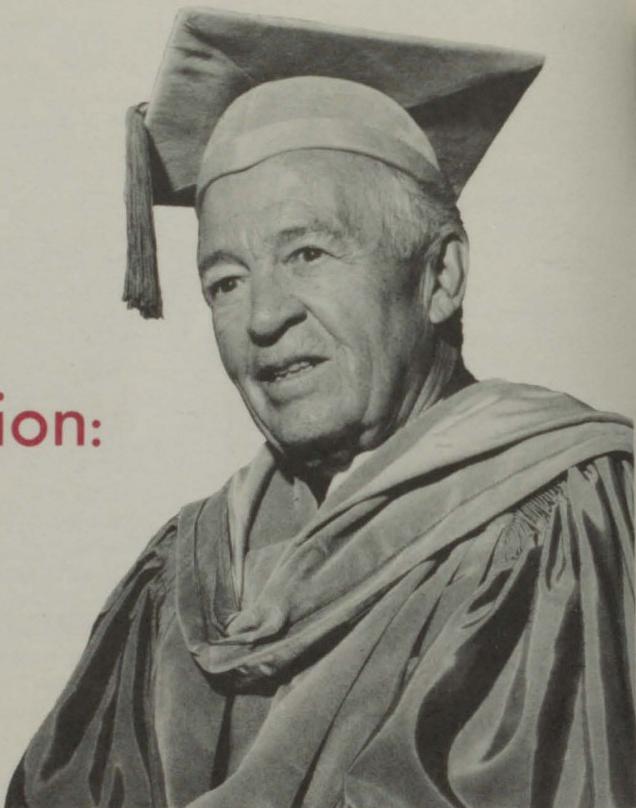

While conducting a very busy and demanding law practice, he has served as a sessional instructor at the University of Windsor for some fourteen years.

Behind each successful man is a dedicated woman — in Art's life, it's Mady. We salute her.

It is for these and other reasons that the Alumni Association of the University of Windsor presents its highest award to this dear friend of the University, Arthur B. Weingarden.

21st Convocation

Convocation: October 1973

Rev. Dr. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B.

Despite the rain that forced the holding of the University of Windsor's Fall Convocation 'under cover' in St. Denis Hall on October 13, the 21st Convocation will be memorable not for the bad weather but for the very exciting highlights of a ceremony that saw about 800 students receive degrees, diplomas, and certificates.

Alex Colville, widely respected as one of the foremost of modern Canadian artists (and known to every Canadian at least indirectly as the designer of the coins minted for Canada's Centennial), was present to receive the honorary degree Doctor of Laws and to address the gathering. In presenting Dr. Colville to Chancellor Lucien Lamoureux for the conferring of the degree, Dr. J. F.

Leddy, President of the University, spoke of Alex Colville as a "thoughtful and reflective artist". Dr. Leddy said: "At a casual and careless glance some of his paintings may seem to be almost photographically realistic, but then one swiftly perceives an additional quality, not easy for the layman to describe. Perhaps I could use such words as detachment and serenity, and a certain quality of timelessness, but there is something else as well, a feeling that the artist is conveying to us some of the sense of mystery which lies just beneath the surface of everyday life, for all of us."

A second honoured guest at Convocation was the Rev. Dr. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B., first president of the University of Windsor, who watched the unveiling of a plaque of dedication to be placed in the University's new LeBel Building for the Fine Arts.

The plaque reads: "This building commemorates the educational leadership and the effective promotion of the fine arts of the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carlisle LeBel, C.S.B., president of Assumption University of Windsor, 1953-63, and University of Windsor, 1963-64."

Also present at Convocation were representatives of Windsor's Polish community, which has donated $10,000 to the University for the establishment of an endowment fund the interest of which will be used to provide Nicholas Copernicus Scholarships in Physics to be given annually to two or more honours students in physics or applied physics. The $10,000 represents the response of individuals, businesses, and organizations in the local Polish community to an appeal for funds to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the birth of Polish scientist Nicholas Copernicus.

Students who received Board of Governors Medals at Convocation were: Mary Kennedy, preliminary year; Raymond J. Pare, first year; Henry Jakubovic, second year; and Bruno Dominelli, third year.

Processional and recessional music was provided by the University of Windsor Instrumental Ensemble, under the direction of James J. Tamburini.

New Fine Arts Building

October 13, 1973 was a special day for the University of Windsor's Fine Arts Department. That day, the date of the University's Fall Convocation, was also the occasion of the formal opening of the Fine Arts Department's new building on College Avenue and Huron Church Line. The building was named the LeBel Building in honour of the first president of the University of Windsor, Rev. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B., a man keenly interested in the arts.

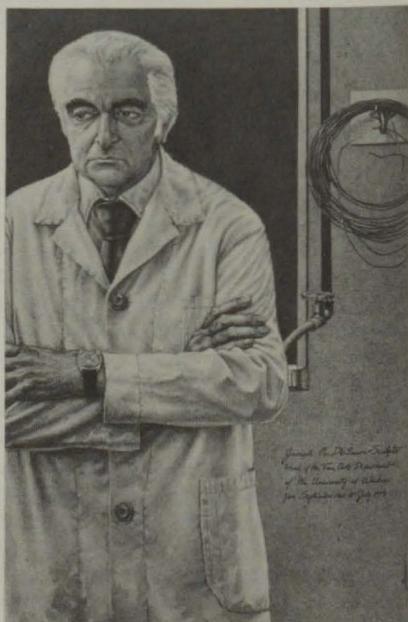

The 36,000 square feet of space in the newly renovated building have been utilized to provide a large, bright gallery, and more adequate facilities for the existing Fine Arts programs in painting, drawing, intaglio, etching, lithography, sculpture, bronze foundry, and the history of art. The increased space also makes possible, for the first time this year, a course in ceramics. Plans for the future include a course in photography and a Master's degree program.

In the meantime, extension courses at all levels give the community access to the offerings of the nine full-time and seven part-time faculty members of the Department. And for those who like to view art instead of themselves actively creating it, a continual procession of student, faculty, and guest exhibits decorates the gallery throughout the year.

The first of these exhibits, especially appropriate to the opening, was a one-man show by the well-known sculptor and former Fine Arts Department head, Joseph N. DeLauro. It was a retrospective exhibit of about 20 pieces in marble, bronze, aluminum, and terra cotta (including the marble "Creation" on our cover). As the first head, indeed the first teacher, in the Department, Joe DeLauro has been the guiding force behind its development over the past 13 years. He has seen it grow from one noisy room beneath the University's gymnasium to the classrooms, studios, and offices in the spacious new LeBel Building.

A large painting of DeLauro, in acrylics on masonite, was presented to him during the opening ceremonies on behalf of his former students by the artist, Bruce Bezaira, himself an alumnus ('70 B.F.A.) and currently an instructor in the Fine Arts Department.

Report from the Computer Centre

Where the 360/65 is at your service

Do you remember those days when a small room in Essex Hall was called the Computer Centre and inside there was a 1620 computer which used to hum as the students, researchers and administrative people pushed buttons to read their punched cards and waited to get the results? Well, times have changed. All the area that used to be the Science Library Reading Room on the second floor of Essex Hall is now occupied by the mighty 360/65 computer and its support equipment. The central wing of Essex Hall on the second floor which used to house the Mathematics Department now accommodates the staff of the Computer Centre and provides working area to the Computer users. All this did not happen overnight, mind you, but five years is not all that long.

How mighty is this 360/65, you may ask. Well, its cycle time is .75 microsecond. Does that make sense? Let me put it in a practical way. It can add two numbers about 70,000 times in a second. It can display the student's record instantly on the television-like terminal in response to an enquiry from the Registrar's office in Windsor Hall, accept and store the cataloguing information typed by four clerks in the Library, read, execute and print results for the small programs that the students feed in themselves on a terminal, run payroll and programs by researchers, all at the same time.

The computing power and the cost of this power gets better perspective if we compare it over the years. It has been quoted that in 1950, the cost of performing 125 million multiplications was $12,000. In 1960, about the time the 1620 computer was installed in the University, it was down to $1,420 and in 1970 it was about the cost of a pound of tomatoes.

You may say, that looks impressive but is it really being used or is it just a white elephant? Look at these figures. To provide the services demanded by the campus user community, the computer is kept operational for 24 hours a day during the week and 16 hours a day during the weekends. The students running their own programs feed nearly 1500 programs a day during peak periods. This is in addition to about 8000 larger programs run inside by the operators per month. It is not unusual for the operators to read 1.5 million cards and print 8 - 10 million lines per month, this not taking into account what the students do on their own on the terminal. If the computer services provided by the Computer Centre are charged to recover the cost of running the centre, then the cost of computing per hour comes to about $250 per hour. The commercial rates for a similar facility would be over $500 per hour.

Let me give you some examples of the applications for which the computer has been used at the University. For this purpose we can divide the users as students, researchers and administrative people.

The students of the School of Computer Science use the computer to learn about the Computer itself, how it operates, what are the capabilities and how to exploit them and how to improve the performance. A number of other departments have courses exposing the students to the use of computers in their areas of specialization. More than 500 students fall into this category. If all these people had to give their programs to the operators to run them, they probably would end up spending more time in submitting and taking back their programs than correcting them. To avoid this delay, the students are provided with their own 'do-it-yourself' facility called the 'terminal'. This terminal includes a card reader and a printer. The students walk in, put the cards in the reader, push the start button and that's about it. Cards are read and the results are printed immediately. On a busy day, over a thousand programs are run on this terminal.

The researchers are more interested in arriving at results than learning about the Computer. Their interests and applications are varied. Here are a few samples.

You want to find out if you have any respiratory deficiency or ailment? Go to this Physical and Health Education Researcher and answer a few questions by simply making some pencil mark on a special sheet. This sheet goes to the optical scanner which produces a punched card which then goes to the Computer. A letter is printed informing you of your condition. If you need to see your doctor, a letter goes to your doctor as well.

If you want to know the performance of coach X in Little League baseball team Y, you just ask. You get his performance, players' reaction to him, parents' reaction to him, and a whole lot of other pertinent information.

You have tried to quit smoking but haven't been able to? Ask this psychologist. He can tell you if you can achieve it by over-smoking, smoking so much that you hate smoking any more.

You wish you could 'see' the population density of Windsor, or the depth of Lake Erie at different parts or the heights of the Rocky Mountains? Your wish is the computer's command. There is the map printed to show you what you want to see. The Geography Department uses this facility regularly. If your interest is in volcanoes and craters, ask this anthropologist who is studying the data collected by various spacecrafts and moon landers. He may be able to tell you how they are clustered and if there is any relation between the craters on the earth, moon and Mars!

The administration's use of the computer is not very obvious but it is extensive. The Personnel Office can produce a detailed and individualized report of the pension and other benefits of an employee. The Finance Office has computerized the payroll system. The Registrar's Office can access student data via the terminal, and from the massive student record stored on the computer, they produce the class lists, grade reports, statements of registration, ID cards, etc. The bookstore uses the computer to keep track of the inventory and for cost accounting. The system being used and continuously updated in the Library is one of the most sophisticated used in the Universities around. If you want to borrow a book, you give the book and the ID card to the clerk. Your ID card and the coded card from the book is inserted in a machine. That stores the information on the computer. When a book is returned, the information is entered again. From this information, the computer keeps track of the circulation and produces overdue notices automatically. When new books are to be catalogued, the clerk types on a typewriter-like terminal and the information is stored. Catalogue cards are produced in the sequence required for filing automatically and the information is passed on for circulation system and new acquisitions list can also be produced.

The Computer Centre staff, in addition to keeping the computer running, act as consultants to students, researchers and to the administrative users. They also write programs for the administration. This varied demand is reflected in the background of the people working in the Centre. There are people with PhD's and Masters degrees in engineering, mathematics and Computer Science, there are graduates and people with experience in industry. Many people take courses to expand their knowledge in the areas that they work. As an extension of their service, the Centre offers practical, non-credit courses and produces manuals and video tapes for user education.

We are proud of the facilities we offer at the Centre but we still keep looking for improvements. We always welcome suggestions. If you have any comments, please let us know.

Research with immediate results

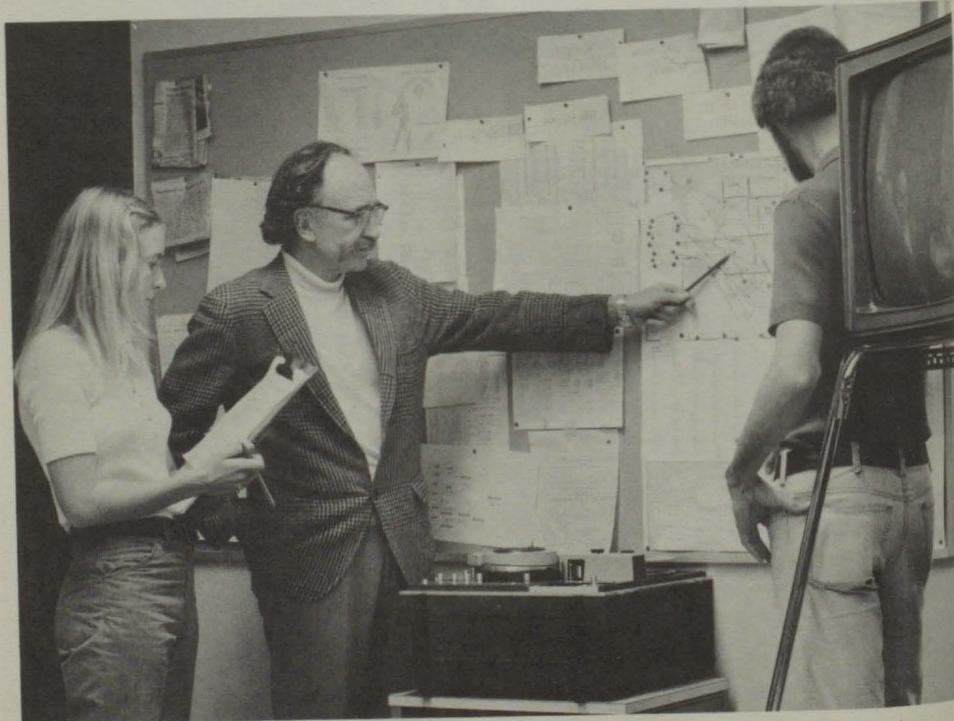

SIR/CAR: new concept in academic research

University-located research that accepts partial data available now in preference to complete data in the future; that chooses, when a choice must be made, practical results over pure research; that deliberately expresses itself in the casual redundancies of the vernacular rather than the traditional eloquence of academic jargon; and that sees publication in a learned journal as a possible by-product rather than the primary objective?

Yes, it's actually happening, and it's happening in the Faculty of Physical and Health Education on the University of Windsor campus.

Sensitive to the current atmosphere in the post-secondary system, with its demands of "more scholar per dollar" and "more relevance for the 'real' world", Professors James Duthie and Richard Moriarty (the latter an Assumption alumnus), supported by their colleagues in the Faculty of Physical and Health Education, a year ago took a hard look at the alternatives to pure ivory-tower style research. Discarding projects like a glorified community centre or the creation of a few Olympic-calibre athletes, they said "we'll do what we can do that no one else can" and came up with two new concepts: the SPORTS INSTITUTE FOR RESEARCH and CHANGE AGENT RESEARCH.

The Sports Institute for Research is a "voluntary mutual benefit service organization" which has attracted support from various segments of the University and the community. The organization of SIR remains flexible, making possible the expression of the wide variety of interests of its members. Current Institute projects include advising the Windsor Bikeways organizers, helping to plan this year's Canadian-American Seminar on "Sport or Athletics: A North American Dilemma", setting up a sports archives of scrapbooks, taped interviews, photographs, and trophies that date back to 1906, and providing consultation, clinics, and analysis — using Change Agent Research techniques — for local amateur sports organizations.

The basic premise that Duthie and Moriarty are testing by Change Agent Research is their belief that problems facing youth sports organizations today are not grounded in the technical skills area but in policy and decision making levels, in a confusion between the goals and methods of amateur youth sport and those of professional athletics. Dick Moriarty emphasizes that the CAR process is value-free; it does everything possible to ensure its own objectivity and to force objectivity on the organization. The SIR team tries to identify the true goals of the organization (pure fun? building skills? winning games and tournaments?) and then to hold a mirror up to the organization so that the organizers themselves can see what their goals are, if they are achieving them, and if not, why not.

To the uninitiated, Change Agent Research seems a very complicated approach to development and research. When explained by Dick Moriarty, however, it breaks down into three quite straightforward phases that follow in logical progression to the achievement of set goals.

The first phase consists of organizational audit. CAR workers examine the current status of the organization through the highly objective "SAW" method which itself consists of three steps: Seeing (through TV monitoring and observing the facial expressions of the players), Asking (through interviews with parents, players, executives, coaches, sponsors, selected by random sampling techniques), and Written questionnaires and source material. By these interviews and questionnaires, both the ultimate goal of the organization and obstacles or conflicts preventing achievement of that goal are revealed. After all this data is processed, communication feedback allows the organization to see itself as CAR saw it.

The second phase is a series of six clinics intended to make effective Change Agents out of the original group. Thirty-minute television presentations on topics like the sociology and psychology of sport, organization and administration, coaching techniques, and gross movement education of children are followed by one-hour discussions. Having been forced to look objectively at its aims and problems, the organization is thus provided with facts necessary to resolve its conflicts and realize its aims.

Phase three involves re-use of the SAW method to look again at the organization, evaluating the outcome of the CAR program, and identifying significant changes resulting from phase two. Also the Change Agent Research procedure is packaged for use with other organizations that may come to the Sports Institute for Research for help.

The current — and most extensive — SIR project is a study of Windsor's District 5 Little League, which is the largest unit of its type in Canada, comprising 3600 boys and parents. Although all members of SIR contribute their talents and skills voluntarily, a Canada Council grant of nearly $12,000 has been received and is being used to provide research equipment, computer and media services, and technical and clerical assistance for "Project: Competition Concern", as the study is called.

For this project, in addition to the leadership of Dr. Duthie and Dr. Moriarty, assistance and advice come from numerous other SIR resource personnel: Prof. Gino Fracas from the Faculty of Physical and Health Education at the University of Windsor; Bob Samaris, Professor and baseball coach at Wayne State University; Dr. Ray Caverzan, local Board of Education psychologist; and representatives from other areas of the University (notably the Media Centre) and the community.

The most publicized of the SIR studies, however, has been the one conducted last winter in conjunction with Windsor Minor Hockey. The decisions made and the changes implemented have received national publicity on Peter Czowski's program "This Country in the Morning", with the result that the 'Windsor Study' has been requested by over 60 Canadian agencies.

Despite the comparative newness of the SIR/CAR program, its success seems to indicate that its organizers, like Lewin, subscribe to the dictum: "No research without action, no action without research".

Historic Gathering of Class of '28

CLASS OF '28. L. to r., front: Fr. Charles McNabb, Mrs. Kay Murphy, Mrs. Mia Dettman, Mrs. Marie Blonde, Mrs. Bob McCabe, Fr. Stan Murphy, Mr. Gourley Howell. Middle: Fr. Mike Dalton, Mrs. Olive Deneau, Mr. Mervin Murphy, Mrs. Velma Kramer, Fr. Arnold Schneider, Fr. Eugene Cullinane. Back: Joseph McCabe, Anthony Kramer, Carl Dettman, Clifford Blonde. (Director of External Liaison, Paul T. Holliday, conveyed greetings from President Leddy and the Alumni Association.)

A very unique, in fact a very historic, gathering of graduates was held on campus in Vanier Hall, Friday, November 23, 1973.

The Graduation Class of '28 of Assumption College met to celebrate the 45th year since receiving their B.A. degrees. In 1928 at graduation, the class made plans to gather once in each five year period; this plan has been faithfully carried out, with this the ninth meeting.

Under the old school banner of "Bonitatem Disciplinam et Scientiam Doce Me" the class gathered from far and near: from Montreal, Toronto, Sarnia, Pontiac, Combermere, Detroit and Windsor. Of the original graduates, two have passed away during the period between the eighth meeting and this one: of the remaining 15, 11 made the meeting and the remaining ones were heard from but unable to come because of distance or ill health.

The former classmates met at 3:00 p.m. in Vanier Hall to reminisce, look and gab over a mug of beer. At 7:00 p.m. the wives of some members joined in cocktails and banquet festivities.

Class President Rev. Eugene Cullinane of Combermere chaired the gathering with 1st Vice-President Carl Dettman of Montreal, 2nd Vice-President Anthony Kramer, and Secretary-Treasurer Cliff Blonde doing their bit. Round the festive board were Rev. Arnold Schneider of Pontiac, (our oldest member, who said Grace), Gourley Howell of Toronto, Joseph McCabe of Detroit, (adopted by the class of '28), Rev. Stan Murphy of Windsor, Rev. Charles McNabb of Wheatley, Rev. Mike Dalton of Sarnia, and Mervin Murphy of Windsor.

During the last five years Rev. Leo Tracey of Detroit and Rev. Thomas McCouey of Windsor passed away and appropriate memento were observed.

Members of '28 who could not attend were — Rev. John Steele of Vancouver, Irving Murphy of Detroit, Desmond Deneau (who sent his wife Olive to represent him) and Roger Des Rosiers of Windsor, Rev. Frank Burns and Rev. James Embser, both of Houston, Texas.

The class of '28 thoroughly enjoyed the re-union, the comradeship, the talk of school days and the personal happenings since.

Parting was melancholy, but all are looking forward to the 50th anniversary gathering for meeting again in re-union and some days of celebration.

Windsor Christmas Party

There was a lot going on in Windsor that night, so we missed some of you! But it was cozy, cozy, cozy, at one of the most delightful little events of the year, the Windsor Chapter Christmas Party on December 1.

Some thought they were seeing double, but there were, in fact, two Christmas trees. Kent McMillan, a recent alumnus, with his three-piece combo of piano, bass and drums provided beautiful music in the intimate setting of the Faculty Lounge.

The Windsor Chapter Party was Ray Marcotte's choice of a "first night out" after a lengthy illness. Having Ray (class of '26) present once again made it a very special evening.

Admission to the Party required "one auctionable item". Connie Jankovic, Windsor Chapter president, party organizer, and the world's prettiest auctioneer, provoked fierce bidding with such items as a cordless waffle iron and a bottle filled with an unidentified potion.

Connie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson, were honoured guests celebrating their 29th wedding anniversary at our Christmas Party.

It was lots of fun. The food was great . . . an evening to remember.

Toronto Christmas Party

Close to 300 alumni gathered in the Rooftop Gardens of Toronto's Royal York Hotel on Friday, December 7 for the Toronto Chapter's Annual Christmas Party. And what a party! There was music for dancing, a cash bar, food, and tables placed for easy conversation. Special guests included Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Leddy, Dr. and Mrs. F. A. DeMarco, Rev. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B., Rev. Hugh Mallon, C.S.B., Rev. Frank Mallon, C.S.B. and Rev. J. F. O'Neill, C.S.B., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stefani, Connie Jankovic, Paul Holliday, Dave Wilson, Lee Latter, and Ann Boyd.

Halfway through the evening, Toronto Chapter President Leo Larocque (who is also the man behind the party) took over the microphone to welcome the alumni and to call on President Leddy to introduce the guest whom everyone delighted to honour, the first president of the University of Windsor — Rev. E. C. LeBel, C.S.B.

Dr. Leddy said that although it is 10 years since Father LeBel left the University of Windsor, he has not been forgotten. In 1966, the University conferred an honorary degree upon him, and this year at the October Convocation, a special part of the ceremony was the unveiling of a plaque to be placed on the University's new Fine Arts Building, named the LeBel Building. Dr. Leddy presented to Father LeBel a photograph of the plaque, so that, as he said jokingly, Father might have proof of his honours to show his fellow Basilians in Toronto.

Father LeBel was also presented with an honorary life membership in the University of Windsor Alumni Association, a gift from the Toronto Chapter, and a watercolour painted by Mary DeMarco, talented wife of the University's Senior Vice-President.

Father LeBel, in responding, commended the new University for the work it is doing in Southwestern Ontario. While the guests listened in attentive silence, Father looked back 60 years to his arrival at Assumption as a schoolboy young enough to be awed by the ghostly reflection of streetlights on the tombstones of the old Assumption cemetery.

The first president reminded his former students that the University's motto is "goodness, discipline, and knowledge in that order" and that today, when we have much knowledge, less discipline, and a goodness that is often in doubt, we need to restore the order of that motto.

The spontaneous standing ovation that followed Father LeBel's closing "God bless you" was an indication of the esteem in which he is held by all who know him.

Santa Claus being present in spirit if not in flesh, more gifts were presented — to Mrs. Leddy, Mrs. Stefani (wife of Association president Joe Stefani), and the 45 lucky alumni who won door prizes.

Paul Holliday, the University of Windsor's Director of External Liaison, spoke fittingly of the Toronto Christmas Party as a "highlight of the year", a chance to see many old friends again and to make new friends. He paid tribute to Leo and Merle Larocque for their great effort in organizing the party.

Paul's tribute was well deserved. It was a good party, and it continued to be a good party until well after midnight. Like all good things, even the best Christmas parties must come to an end, but Toronto chapter hospitality will not soon be forgotten. We're already looking forward to next year.

APPOINTMENTS

Academic Vice-President

The appointment of Professor John W. McAuliffe to be Vice-President, Academic, of the University of Windsor was announced Thursday, October 25, by the President of the University, Dr. J. F. Leddy.

Professor McAuliffe comes to this post from being Associate Dean of the Faculty of Law at the University of Windsor. He has been a member of the teaching faculty of Law since the opening of the Law School in 1968.

In his new post, he is responsible for the co-ordination of academic administration for the University. At Windsor there are also a Vice-President, Administration, responsible in non-academic areas, and a Senior Vice-President for planning and special projects.

Vice-President McAuliffe brings to his new post an unusual breadth of academic and administrative experience. He joined the staff of the Windsor Faculty of Law as a full Professor in 1968, with long teaching and administrative experience in the fields of both law and accounting. He was appointed Assistant Dean of Law in 1970 and Associate Dean in 1973.

He came to Windsor from the University of Detroit where he had been Professor of Law for seven years. He had earlier transferred from the University of Detroit's College of Commerce, in which he had served in the Accounting Department's faculty from 1949, at the time of his transfer as Professor and Chairman.

Before entering the academic profession Professor McAuliffe spent ten years in business as a certified public accountant.

A graduate of Fordham University with the Bachelor of Science degree in 1941, Professor McAuliffe holds graduate degrees from the University of Michigan (Master of Business Administration), the University of Detroit (Doctor of Law), and New York University (Master of Laws).

Co-ordinator of Extra-Mural Programs

A distinguished figure in Ontario education, C. R. MacLeod of Windsor, has been appointed Co-ordinator of Extra-Mural Programs for the University of Windsor.

Mr. MacLeod's appointment was announced November 29 by the University's Senior Vice-President, Dr. Frank A. DeMarco.

Mr. MacLeod, who retired earlier this year as Windsor's Director of Education, will administer extra-mural programs, and seek to discover and arrange to have the University meet community educational needs.

His first task will be to do this in the Chatham area. Under his direction, the University is proceeding to set up a permanent office in Chatham. This office will provide an information and guidance centre and full liaison with the main campus of the University. Integrated into this operation will be the present range of University of Windsor courses offered in Chatham by the Division of Extension.

It is hoped that arrangements for full-time University study in Chatham will be completed reasonably soon, possibly within a year's time. As new courses are developed they will be presented to the University of Windsor Senate for approval.

Mr. MacLeod brings much teaching and administrative experience to his new post.

He is the author of a book, "Citizenship Training", many articles on education, and has collaborated in the writing of a number of books in the fields of social studies, English and spelling.

In 1971, Mr. MacLeod was appointed by the government as a director of the Ontario Education Communications Authority. He has served also as chairman of a special committee to prepare a report on the training of elementary school teachers in Ontario.

Mr. MacLeod is a former Senator of the University of Western Ontario and a former Governor of the University of Windsor.

The new Co-ordinator's service to education was recognized in 1967 with the V. K. Greer Memorial Award for having made the most outstanding contribution to education in Ontario that year, and, this year, with similar awards from the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation and the Canadian Education Association.

Summer Accommodation

The Housing Office would like to extend an invitation to University of Windsor alumni and their families to make use of our residence facilities in the summer. During the period from May 5 until August 23, 1974 our facilities will be available to alumni at the same reasonable rates we offer to conferences:

$5.50 per night for a double room

$8.00 per night for a single room

Children are welcome but we cannot accommodate pets. Advance reservations are required and can be made by contacting the Housing Office.

We hope that alumni who are traveling in the Windsor-Detroit area will choose to stay on campus — for the sake of economy and/or nostalgia.

Director of Residences.

Dear Sir:

Firstly, may I congratulate you on doing a good job in keeping in touch with the great silent majority. Now, an announcement for your "Alumni News".

On July 14, 1973 Walter Gollick '70 B.A. was united in holy matrimony with Linda Connelly '71 B.A. Walter enjoys his work in Investment Planning, Insurance Products and Tax Relief with Empire Life, and Linda is teaching Geography and Science at Loretto College School. Both invite friends and past acquaintances to call on them in Toronto.

Also, I have changed my address. For your records, the new address is: 71 Parkwoods Village Dr., Apt. 407, Don Mills, Ontario M3A 2Y1.

Best regards,
Walter & Linda Gollick
